One of the "joys set before Him" (Hebrews 12:2) was the salvation of lost sinners. Others were expected to rejoice with our Lord over the fact that lost sinners were coming to faith in Him and were "found" in Him. The scribes and Pharisees could not enter into this joy because they were still lost and did not wish to be found.

The Catechism of the Catholic Church defines purgatory as a “purification, so as to achieve the holiness necessary to enter the joy of heaven,” which is experienced by those “who die in God’s grace and friendship, but still imperfectly purified” (CCC 1030). It notes that “this final purification of the elect . . . is entirely different from the punishment of the damned” (CCC 1031).

What Does the Catholic Church Teach About Purgatory ...

Perhaps the reason the child feels “relief” is simply because his mother finally took the time to pay him some much needed attention, albeit sadly in the form of physical violence. And like it or not, folks, striking another human being with force and intent to hurt them is indeed violence. This child feels most loved when his mother hits him.
